Research Field

I am a faculty member in the Division of Gastroenterology & Hepatology at the Oregon Health & Science University with MPH training in epidemiology and clinical research. I am a clinical gastroenterologist and endoscopist, and a member of OHSU's Knight Cancer Center. My over-arching goal is to optimize prevention of colorectal cancer via screening and prevention by leveraging knowledge of its precursor lesions and colorectal carcinogenesis. I have been a Principal Investigator or Co-Investigator on a number of federally funded and industry-sponsored studies of colorectal cancer screening with colonoscopy and noninvasive tests. My primary areas of research and scholarly interest include GI cancer epidemiology, serrated polyps and serrated carcinogenesis, colonoscopy performance and quality, and sustainability practices in GI endoscopy.
